NSA Declassification/Release Instructions on File

Dear Curt,

With regard to the [REDACTED] paper that I forwarded to [REDACTED] I have just learned that the copy that was sent to the Director of NSA is incomplete in that the appendices were not sent. Kindly pass on to Bill that the people here would be most grateful if he did not volunteer any information to NSA about the main paper unless he felt that NSA was aware that he had a copy, and especially if he did not mention receiving the appendices.

In a chat with [REDACTED] the other day, he mentioned his concern over the fact that NSA had declined an invitation to the forthcoming [REDACTED] Conference because of a shortage of travel funds. He wondered whether [REDACTED]

& NSA

I discovered that NSA had had their travel funds cut by 28%, and then went to see [REDACTED]. He immediately recognized the importance of the conference and the contribution an NSA delegate might make, and felt that there was sufficient justification for NSA to spend money to send a member of its aircraft panel to the conference, without relying on another agency for funds. [REDACTED] sent a cable home urging NSA to reconsider its position.

[REDACTED] seemed very pleased with the approach and is hopeful that the combination of the [REDACTED] cable and the [REDACTED] cable will have the desired effect. You might pursue this matter at home and, if NSA still declines and [REDACTED]
